Teach For All Request for Service

Consultant Opportunity

PURPOSE

Teach For All’s People, Organization & Culture team and the Leadership Accelerator are looking for a consultant to plan and design a whole curriculum and journey for a Trauma Sensitive Journey - this includes designing the content and flow for each session, facilitating every session alongside other consultants and interviewing for candidates to be a part of this journey.

CONTEXT

The state of education systems around the globe are dire and the call to action in our schools is urgent. Because the work demands deep commitment, complex problem solving, and relentless determination, the Teach For All network and it’s partner organizations historically attract actors who are deeply passionate about what they do, and who go to great lengths to achieve their goals. At times, this deep passion and commitment leads to folks sacrificing their own wellbeing in the name of “closing the gap” in educational opportunities in their context. While these qualities have in some ways driven us as a collective network to achieve great milestones, in other ways it has had an adverse impact on our community wellbeing and has contributed inadvertently to a system of achievement at all costs to the individual, the community, and the system itself.

Noticing the impacts of this legacy on our culture and recognizing that we can be more effective for our students if we live into our collective health, we come together at this moment to become a healing system.
